

La Jolla Community Center launches fundraising campaign for new computer lab

A rendering depicts a planned computer lab at the La Jolla Community Center. (Courtesy)

APRIL 29, 2021

The La Jolla Community Center has launched its SeniorConnect campaign to raise funds for a new computer lab. The lab is designed to provide equipment and instruction for senior citizens who may be isolated and seeking to learn how to use technology.

Campaign funds will be used to create a modern computer lab with new furniture, equipment and storage; provide multiple levels of computer instruction to help seniors gain greater access to health, financial and other online services; and expand current transportation service to reach more seniors in the community.

Four levels of corporate involvement are available. The Community Center also welcomes private donations. For more information, visit ljcommunitycenter.org.