

SEEN

« The Rancho Santa Fe-based Tea 3 Foundation was created to help children, the military, and animals. Organizations are invited to submit projects to the foundation and its Board of Directors, who will ensure that funds are raised and projects are completed from start to finish.

Lynda Kerr, Dana Alkasmi, Ewa Fenison, Esther Rodriguez, and Cathy Herrick

Eve Faucet and Beatriz Andrade

Gina Jordan, Sandra den Ujil, Esther Rodriguez, and Debbie and Kurt Schwend

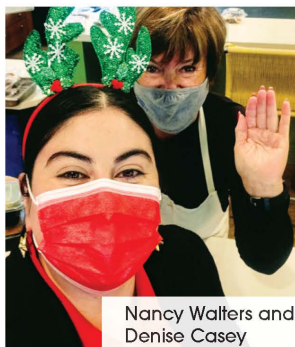

Lola Green and Esther Rodriguez

Margot Wallace

Jeanne Herberger and Susan Leonard

Nancy Walters and Denise Casey

Cari Slater

Georgia Schweitzer

COURTESY PHOTOGRAPHY

Vegetables donated by Yasukochi Family Farms

HOLIDAY CHEER FOR LOCAL SENIORS

The La Jolla Community Center spread cheer in the form of a meal delivery effort for seniors and members living alone. Chef-prepared meals, desserts, fresh vegetables, and flowers were delivered to approximately 75 individuals by staff and volunteers. A grant awarded by the San Diego Seniors Community Foundation, with underwriting and support from Derek Marso, owner of Valley Farm Market, Lori Roth of Yasukochi Family Farms, and chef Nikki Schaeffer, made the effort possible. "Our goal in the next year is to implement programs like this one to connect with isolated seniors and find ways to meet their needs with care and compassion," says LJCC Executive Director Nancy Walters.